DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1 to 3, 5 to 8, 11, 12 and 15 to 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dittrich et al (Applied Surface Sci) in view of admitted prior art.

The Dittrich et al reference teaches a method and apparatus for laser treating organic materials. An organic crystal is placed on a tray or substrate to be placed in a laser device. A short pulsed laser beam is then directed at the crystal organic material. The power of the laser can be 30mj/cm note page 88 and 89. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the cooling of the crystals. However, the admitted prior art in the specification teaches that cooling to below 0 c with nitrogen gas is a standard processing step. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the Ditttrich et al reference by the teachings of the admitted prior art to cool the crystal in order to increase the control of the laser work in the organic crystal.

Claims 4, 9, 10, 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ditttrich et al (Applied Surface Sci) in view of admitted prior art.

The Ditttrich et al and admitted prior art are relied on for the same reasons as stated, supra, and differ from the instant claims in the means to deliver the gas and laser properties. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentations the optimum, operable cooling means and laser properties in order to better and more uniformly treat the crystals.

Response to Applicants' Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed November 30, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' argument concerning the teachings of the admitted prior art is noted. However, the teachings clearly give a reasoning and motivation to work with organic crystals at low temperatures. The reason is to avoid damages to the crystal. This gives motivation to one of ordinary skill in the art to due the process of the primary reference at lower temperatures. The processes of the admitted prior art are still processes done to the crystal.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
